

Idaho Perinatal Quality Collaborative News

The Idaho Perinatal Quality Collaborative (IDPQC) works to promote evidence-based best practices in perinatal and neonatal care, reduce disparities, and improve the overall health and well-being of families. Together, we can achieve our goal of providing equitable, compassionate, and effective care to all who need it.

Celebrating National Rural Health Day

This National Rural Health Day, we shine a spotlight on the incredible efforts of rural communities in providing outstanding maternal health care. Rural health providers play a crucial role in ensuring that mothers and babies receive the care they need, despite the unique challenges they face. Let's honor the innovative solutions and tireless efforts that make a difference in the lives of rural families every day.

Let's celebrate the resilience and commitment of those who work tirelessly to improve maternal health care in rural areas. Together, we can continue to support and uplift our rural communities, ensuring a healthier future for all.

Webinar: Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Screening for Perinatal Mental Health and Substance Use Disorders Roundtable

A roundtable discussion will be hosted by the Health Resources and Services Administration's Maternal and Child Health Bureau's TA Innovation Center. This session will explore the complexities of using screening tools for perinatal mental health and substance use disorders, with a special focus on cultural and linguistic responsiveness.

The discussion aims to delve into the workflows, processes and contexts surrounding these tools, examining how they can enhance patient experiences, guide subsequent steps and shape follow-up care.
