Psychological First Aid (PFA)

PFA is an internationally recognized method of support intended to help people during and after a disaster or emergency. It uses a holistic, community wellness approach to help reduce levels of emotional distress for individuals, families, and communities through practical care, compassion, connection, and support from others.

Psychological First Aid for Indigenous Communities

This workshop uses the same holistic community wellness approach as the basic PFA workshop. The key difference is this workshop focuses more on supporting the needs of Indigenous populations. The goal of this workshop is to introduce insights that could support Indigenous and non-Indigenous participants to include western and Indigenous views when offering support. We also discuss ways that PFA responders can provide culturally inclusive and safe support using a person-focused lens rather than a pan-Indigenous lens.

This workshop is not intended to teach participants about specific cultural beliefs, traditions, history, or cultural competencies.
