

THE BONEYARD KILLERS ARE FAKE

by Miles Mathis

First published December 14, 2021

Since I am now living in the general area these killings allegedly took place in California, I have finally heard of them. Until now I hadn't. So I am here to do my usual deconstruction of this manufactured event, which is of course yet another instance of the Men-are-Pigs project.

Let's start by looking up Charles Ng at Instantcheckmate. At the San Quentin prison website, he is listed as Charles Chitat Ng, age 60. But the big computers have him listed as age 61, with 13 locations, none of which is San Quentin. He does however have West Hollywood on his list, along with 12 other LA locations. They all happen to be in a line from West Hollywood to Rancho Cucamonga. Although he is supposed to have gone to Notre Dame in Belmont, CA, he has no listing for that, or any other listings in the San Francisco area. He was supposed to be in the Marines in Hawaii after that, but he also has no listing for Hawaii. After being arrested and put on trial for court martial in Hawaii, he allegedly escaped detention and fled back to California. Not easy to escape detention in Hawaii, since all they have to do is post some men to the airport. No one thought to do that, I guess. He hid in Ukiah in northern California, but guess what, he doesn't have that on this list either. It IS right by Lake County, though, so you can see they were incredibly lazy in making up names for this theater. He was allegedly caught there and spent 18 months in the stockade in Leavenworth, but he doesn't have Kansas on his list, either. After a dishonorable discharge, he joined his pal Lawrence Lake in Wilseyville, CA, but that isn't on his list either.

Ng has allegedly been in San Quentin on death row now for 22 years. Funny we never hear any updates about that. None are listed at Wikipedia.

According to Instantcheckmate, Ng is AKA Charles Cheng, with two other middle initials, either T. or

N. Although San Quentin lists him as Charles Chitat Ng, his mugshot does not match that:

It says Chat, not Chitat. And given the place of his crimes, you would expect that board to read Sacramento or Calaveras County, not San Francisco. He was indicted in Calaveras County, which is nowhere near San Francisco. We are told he got a change of venue to Orange County, but that is also not San Francisco, being near Los Angeles. And it makes no sense he would get a change of venue that far away. Are we supposed to believe he couldn't get a fair trial in Calaveras County, due to too much press coverage? Since Calaveras County is known for its wall-to-wall media? Actually, Calaveras County wasn't known for anything before this, except maybe jumping frogs.

But let's back up. Ng was born in Hong Kong, the son of a wealthy executive. His parents are not listed at Wikipedia. But ATI tells us his father's name was Kenneth Ng. Charles' mother is given as Oi Ping. But neither of those people are on his Instantcheckmate list of relatives. There we find Zhiqiang Cheng, 66, probably Charles' brother, with Berkeley on his list. His father may be Peter Cheng, listed as "trustee". This may link us to the Peter Cheng and Joseph Chan trusts, linking us to Hong Kong as well as Adelaide. It also may link us to Ronnie Chan, famous billionaire "philanthropist" of Hong Kong who likes to give money to US Colleges, including Harvard and USC, where he graduated in 1976. Ronnie Chang is the son of Chan Tseng-Tsi, who founded Hang Lung: that's where the Harvard School of Public Health got its name. This links into current events, as you see: the Chinese are buying out American interests in Public Health and undermining them. Has Harvard been promoting public health during the Plandemic? No, just the opposite. It is helping murder millions of people for profit.

Charles Ng is also related to Aaron and Besilda Ng: not your usual Chinese given names. Indicating Ng is part Jewish, as we would expect here.

Charles Ng went to the Bentham Grammar School in North Yorkshire, England, which was founded in 1726. It was very exclusive, with only about 100 students in the 1970s. So why was this boy from Hong Kong going there? This would indicate his mother was not Oi Ping, but an Englishwoman. As you can see from his pictures, he only looks half Chinese. Somehow he was in the US Marines by age 19, which makes no sense for a rich boy from Hong Kong and England. . . unless he was in Intelligence.

His pal in fake crime Leonard Lake also came out of the Marines. As with Ng, Wiki refuses to give us Lake's parents. His bio skips straight ahead to his time at Balboa High School, and then his entry into the Marines, which he joined at age 19 in 1964. Balboa High School may be a fake entry here, to imply Ng wasn't in a rich part of town, but it also may be a marker, since it has a famous Junior ROTC contingent. Lake served two tours of duty in Vietnam before allegedly being discharged in 1971 with psychological disorders. We may assume he was never discharged and was only on assignment in Operation Chaos. In fact, the best assumption would be that Lake was Ng's commanding officer, and took Ng along with him on this assignment as his lieutenant. We are supposed to believe Ng and Lake met in 1981, but we can be sure they met in the Marines.

According to Celebsagewiki.com, this Leonard Lake, b. 1945, is an actor. His income comes from being a successful actor. His worth is given as between $1-5 million. This site does not know he is dead and has no date of death. He has a Findagrave page, but no gravestone and no parents there. It says "cremated, location of ashes unknown." Convenient. An empty page, with only his fake bio.

Instantcheckmate has never heard of a Leonard T. Lake of California, age 39 or 76. Neither has MyLife. None of the Leonard Lakes listed are related to his wife Claralyn Balazs. We do find a Claralyn Balazs of San Francisco, age 64, but she is not related to a Leonard Lake. She is only related to Kesslers, apparently through marriage, since her name is also Claralyn Kessler. Like Charles Ng, she has Sherman Oaks on her list. Also Montgomery Village, MD, which is north DC, just a short drive from Langley and the Pentagon. Also Chicago. These Balazs are also linked to Mountain View, Sunnyvale, and Berkeley. So although we are told Lake met her in a hippie commune near San Francisco, we can be sure that isn't true. They were both agents on assignment.

Claralyn is related to Michael Kessler of Falls Church, VA. That is. . . Langley. He would appear to be her nephew. He has several aliases, including Metcalf and Matthews. Claralyn is also related to Cara Kessler, age 25, who has Chantilly, VA, on her list. So, once again CIA. A second Cara Kessler, age 28, is also in Mountain View. So probably the same person. They both have San Francisco on their lists. I would assume Cara is the daughter of Claralyn.

On Lake's Wiki page, we find this strange sentence:

Next to the cabin, Lake had built a structure described in his journals as a "dungeon". He probably had already murdered his brother Donald and his friend and best man Charles Gunnar, stealing their money and Gunnar's identity.

Probably? Is that according to police reports, arrests, or convictions? No, it is according to Charlotte Greig, who wrote a 2005 book Evil Serial Killers: in the Minds of Monsters. So that footnote is worthless. Have the big computers ever heard of this Charles Gunnar of California? Yes, but the one at Instantcheckmate is listed as 79, which means he wasn't killed before 1985 in his 30s or 40s. Gunnar has the dreaded i on his relatives list, so he also looks like an agent. MyLife has another one born 1949, and he is from San Jose, but he died in 1992 at age 43, so Lake couldn't have killed him before 1985.

I think I figured out the link to Ukiah, CA. The area around Ukiah, including Willitts, where Mendocino College is located, would seem to be out in the middle of nowhere, but it has long been owned by the Whitman Company, formerly Illinois Central Railroad, owned from the beginning by a "consortium of European bankers". Probably the Rothschilds. E. H. Harriman later owned or fronted a large part of it, but by the mid-1900s they owned huge areas of the Mendocino area. Buick billionaire Charles Stewart Howard was part of this family, and he owned Ridgewood Ranch, where Seabiscuit was stabled. E. H. Harriman was a Noel through his mother, and the Noels are also Stuarts through the Gordons. The Howards were the righthand men of the Stanleys and Tudors, of course. We studied the Whitmans in my recent paper on Charles Whitman, fake University of Texas tower shooter, where I showed you he was closely related to the Lincolns and Hamiltons. . . which of course links us to the Stuarts again. So staging this Project Chaos hoax in Ukiah was cake, since they could do it on their own lands, manufacturing anything they wished. They also owned all the newspapers in that area, of course. The major players probably drove in from Beale, Travis, and McClellan Air Force Bases nearby. A similar hour's drive east from McClellan would take them to Wilseyville, also remote but also owned by the same people. That whole area of Calaveras County was bought up during and after the Gold Rush by the same bankers and holding companies, and has been owned by them ever since. Archie Emmerson owns large parts of that area through Sierra Pacific Industries. The Emmersons are in the peerage, related through the Shepherds to the Gordons, and thereby to the Stuarts.

So who is this Leonard Lake? It now looks like a fake name, so I checked all his aliases to see if one of them was his real name. It doesn't look like it. They may have borrowed this name from from a real Leonard Lake of Tennessee, possibly related to our fake Leonard Lake, since we find him in Hebron, buried in Salem cemetery. Just the sort of clues they like to leave. Even stranger, a search at Bing for "Leonard Lake Findagrave" takes us first to this Leonard Lake of Tennessee, even before the more famous Leonard Lake, serial killer. Not what you would expect.

We also find a Leonard Archibald Lake of New Zealand, with links to great wealth in England (Hampshire). At Findagrave we find them related to Kennard, Cox, King, and Briant. If we check them at thepeerage.com, we find them later marrying the Nevilles and Howards. We saw the name Howard above. These Lakes come from the knights of Hampshire, later Viscounts Lake, related to Admiral Onslow, 1st Baronet, as well as several other top generals of that period. These Lakes liked the name Lancelot, since many of the early knights were named Lancelot Lake, so on a hunch I searched Lancelot Lakes in the entire US, thinking they might have changed Lancelot's name to Leonard in this hoax for obvious reasons. Guess what, I got a hit! The first thing Instantcheckmate asked me was "has Lancelot Lake ever lived in Sherman Oaks?" Oho! As we saw above, both Charles Ng and Claralyn Balazs had Sherman Oaks on their lists. When the listings came up, there were three in the US, but all three look like the same person, with no age listed for any of them. The locations lists all listed the same places, which also included New York City, Los Angeles, Van Nuys, North Hollywood, Nairobi, OR, and Fort Worth, TX. Remember, Charles Ng also had West Hollywood on his list. So I guess we now know why no Leonard Lake came up in California. His real name was Lancelot Lake.

At LinkedIn we find a Lancelot Lake of Los Angeles, but he is black and has none of the other locations on his list. All his other locations are in Africa. According to MyLife this black Lancelot Lake is not the same as the one in Van Nuys, previously of Fort Worth, again with no age. The address in Van Nuys is some really crappy apartments on Oxnard, and there is no way the black Lancelot Ayo Lake of LinkedIn would be living there, since he is a bigshot executive currently living in Liberia. We would also not expect our Lancelot Lake to be living there, unless he has come way down in the world, so this address may be a front. So let's check his previous address in Fort Worth. It is a normal house, except for one thing: it is blurred out on Google Maps. This confirms my suspicion, since if a CIA agent didn't live there, why else blur it out? You will say "Why let MyLife publish his addresses?" Which is a good question, but we have seen MyLife outing agents before, so it is possible that website is infiltrated by some opposing faction. That is my best guess.

Another possibility is that they have the wrong picture up for Lancelot Lake at LinkedIn, and that he is not really black. So our Lancelot Lake may be in Africa working top Intel projects. The listings at LinkedIn tend to confirm that, since they have the flabby descriptions Intel loves. He was previously a technical advisor for an engineering project, and is now working on some fake Green Consultancy in Monrovia for the Liberia Environmental Protection Agency.

Seeming to confirm most of my guesses, we find that our search for Lancelot Lake at MyLife takes us in the second position to a person named Quyen Pham Khong, 47, of Paso Robles, CA. We can find no link to any Lancelot Lake in the text of the free listing, and it seems we are drawing a blank until we notice where Khong works: Bureau of Barbering and Cosmetology. Why is that a clue? See my paper on the Sharon Tate murders, where we saw salons in Southern California acting as CIA fronts. Unexpectedly, a search on the Bureau of Barbering and Cosmetology in Paso Robles pulls up 549 results at MyLife, which you have to admit is strange. There cannot be that many people working there. Especially since a websearch shows there is no Bureau of Barbering and Cosmetology in Paso Robles.

The only listing for that is at masshysteriagames.tripod.com/cosmo.htm. Tends to confirm that this is Operation Chaos, and that they have left one of their lists on the web. The main address is a P. O. Box in Sacramento. Guess what one of the other addresses there is? Ukiah, CA. Another is North Hollywood. Another is Rancho Cucamonga. Another is Chowchilla, which we have seen recently, the site of a major prison with a fake wing. So let's check the address there for the barbershop or salon in Ukiah. Guess what, it ain't there. "72 years in the industry" and run by the same woman (Grace Zwicky) for 45 years, but no sign of it on Google maps, 2021. A casualty of Covid, maybe. Or maybe a CIA front. Or both. But the place had problems long before Covid, since we find a fine and order of abatement posted online from 2015. I guess the CIA forgot to submit financial statements. The fine was paid four months later with evidence of compliance.

I also found no Salon Success Academy in the Foothill Blvd shopping center in 2018 in Rancho Cucamonga.

So I have made up my mind about this one. You can do more research if you still have doubts.
